As a result of the on-going COVID-19 pandemic, the 2021 Regular Session was held, on the part of the House of Delegates, via "electronic communication means." During the 2020 Regular Session, the House amended its Rules to grant the Speaker the authority to direct the House to meet by "electronic communication means" if there was "...a disaster, natural or otherwise, or other emergency circumstance..." and also to allow the chairman of any legislative committee to conduct meetings by "electronic communication means...without any requirement that a quorum be physically assembled in a single location." [House Rule 4] In March of 2020, Governor Ralph S. Northam had issued Executive Order No. 51, declaring a State of Emergency due to Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19). Pursuant to the provisions of House Rule 4 and the fact that the Governor's Executive Order remained in effect, the Speaker of the House of Delegates, Eileen Filler-Corn, announced in November 2020 that the House would meet virtually for the upcoming Regular Session. The Speaker presided over the House floor sessions from her Chair in the House Chamber at Richmond, while the remaining 99 members participated using electronic communication means. Meetings of the House committees and subcommittees were held via electronic communication means. The Clerk of the House and her staff were able to safely provide on-site support to the Speaker and her staff as well as virtually supporting the members of the House by working in teams and implementing distancing measures. Due to the heightened need for contactless communication, many internal processes—such as the Joint Assembly on the first day of Session, judicial elections, public participation in House subcommittees and committees, House and Senate communications, and distribution of legislative materials—were altered during the 2021 Regular Session. Some of these changes, like allowing the public to participate in committee meetings virtually, will remain in effect on a permanent basis.

[Note: There is no Seating Chart or Seating Arrangement in the Appendix of the Journal for the 2021 Regular Session since it was held via electronic communication means.]

Introduction to Indexes of the Journal of the House of Delegates

The Journal of the House of Delegates is a compilation of proceedings and information related to a specific session of the General Assembly, focusing on items relevant to introduced legislation and actions by members of the House of Delegates, the legislature, and the Governor. The Subject Index offers page number references for easy access to motions and requests on specific legislative items including those directly attributable to a Delegate. The "Bills and Resolutions" category provides a breakdown of Journal day entries that encompasses the legislative process from introduction to enactment. The "Motions and Requests" category is a breakdown of every motion made by a member or every request for action allowed pursuant to member privilege. Parliamentary inquiries and points of order are set out in the Subject Index under those specific categories and noted by member. The Speaker's statements and rulings are found under "Speaker of the House of Delegates [Eileen Filler-Corn]."

The Numerical Index is a list of bills and resolutions in numerical order with entries that provides Journal page number references to specific legislative actions that occurred on the House floor. This Index is useful in tracking an identified piece of legislation from introduction to final disposition.
