SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 258

Requesting the Department of Energy to study the economic and environmental impacts of eliminating waste coal piles in Southwest Virginia. Report.

Agreed to by the Senate, February 22, 2023
Agreed to by the House of Delegates, February 17, 2023

WHEREAS, the material left over from coal mining has resulted in garbage of bituminous (GOB) piles that contain mining waste and waste coal throughout Southwest Virginia; and

WHEREAS, the 1977 Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act (SMCRA) federalized regulatory control over coal surface mining, but also held landowners harmless for abandoned mine land features created prior to the SMCRA, which include waste coal piles otherwise known as waste coal or GOB piles; and

WHEREAS, the result of holding landowners harmless for these "pre-law" sites is that the Commonwealth is ultimately responsible for cleaning up the nearly 152 known GOB piles that are ubiquitous in Southwest Virginia at an estimated liability as high as $2.4 billion just to reclaim the sites; and

WHEREAS, the estimated 80 million cubic yards of material spread over 3,300 acres contributes over 20,000 tons of sediment to Virginia's waterways, annually discharging acidic water into watersheds that can include iron, manganese, and aluminum in some of the most biodiverse rivers in the United States; and

WHEREAS, these GOB piles are subject to random uncontrolled fires and the United States Geological Survey reports that these coal fires pose multiple threats to the global environment because they emit greenhouse gases and other toxic substances that threaten human and environmental health; and

WHEREAS, currently, the only viable option to eliminate this hazard permanently is to combust the material at the Virginia City Hybrid Energy Center (VCHEC) or other approved facilities, while non-permanent solutions include capping or interring the material, exposing the Commonwealth to a long-term maintenance liability that would exceed the initial liability to reclaim the sites; and

WHEREAS, since VCHEC's commissioning, it has burned over 10 million tons of material and has spurred a self-sustaining industry, GOB reclamation, that supports over 100 jobs; and

WHEREAS, the Commonwealth must fully evaluate both the economic and environmental impacts of GOB piles to Southwest Virginia versus the impact of a fully operating VCHEC facility or other approved facilities and gauge the complete economic impact to the Commonwealth should VCHEC or other approved facilities be idled and the full liability of the cleanup be shouldered by taxpayers; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED by the Senate, the House of Delegates concurring, That the Department of Energy be requested to study the economic and environmental impacts of eliminating waste coal piles in Southwest Virginia.

In conducting its study, the Department of Energy (the Department) shall convene a work group of stakeholders featuring representatives from state and local governments, investor-owned utilities, environmental organizations, the waste coal reclamation industry, and others deemed appropriate by the Department. The Department shall hold at least one public meeting and shall create a mechanism to receive public comment for consideration during the study.

The Department shall examine various use case scenarios ranging from capping all existing waste coal piles in place to combusting all the material at VCHEC or other approved facilities. Each scenario considered by the Department shall contain an analysis of the direct and indirect economic and environmental benefits of that particular scenario.

All agencies of the Commonwealth shall provide assistance to the Department for this study, upon request.

The Department shall complete its meetings by November 30, 2023, and shall submit to the Governor and the General Assembly an executive summary and a report of its findings and recommendations, if any, for publication as a House or Senate document. The executive summary and report shall be submitted as provided in the procedures of the Division of Legislative Automated Systems for the processing of legislative documents and reports no later than the first day of the 2024 Regular Session of the General Assembly and shall be posted on the General Assembly's website.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 287

Encouraging the Virginia Department of Veterans Services and the Virginia State Approving Agency to develop and implement new processes by which flight training and aircraft maintenance training schools in Virginia can adjust student for veterans pricing based on market conditions.

Agreed to by the Senate, February 6, 2023
Agreed to by the House of Delegates, February 23, 2023

WHEREAS, since 1944, the GI Bill has helped qualifying veterans and their family members get money to cover all or some of the costs for school or training, including flight training; and

WHEREAS, flight training is considerably more expensive than most other funded training, which has historically attracted a small percentage of unscrupulous operators to target veterans by offering flight training in overly expensive aircraft or through deceptive financing scams; and

WHEREAS, to prevent abuse of veterans and misuse of U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) funds, the VA sought and was able to enact federal legislation to support review and control processes; and

WHEREAS, over time these control processes have become increasingly cumbersome and are now blocking legitimate aviation training opportunities from being available to the nation's veterans; to offer VA-funded training, a Virginia flight school must submit an application to the Virginia State Approving Agency (SAA) to gain approval for adding locations, adding training programs, or to change the rates they charge for their training services; the SAA reviews the application, then sends a letter to the VA with their determination and recommended approvals; and

WHEREAS, typically, the VA follows the SAA recommendations and issues a Web Enabled Approval Management System (WEAMS) document to the applying school; only at that time, may the school begin to train VA-funded students at a new location, offer training to VA-funded students in new programs, or begin to charge rates that they had been charging to non-VA funded patrons during the WEAMS approval process; and

WHEREAS, this approval process has traditionally taken between two and six months, or longer; and

WHEREAS, as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and supply chain issues, all aspects related to operating a flight school have become more expensive, including the cost of fuel, parts for maintenance of aircraft, and other consumable supplies; and

WHEREAS, in addition to a pilot shortage, the United States is experiencing an equal shortage of aircraft maintenance technicians with Federal Aviation Administration aircraft and power frame (A&P) certifications; and

WHEREAS, all VA-approved flight schools in the Commonwealth are located near airline, charter, or military maintenance shops, and these maintenance facilities are feverishly attempting to recruit mechanics with A&P certification; mechanics holding this certification are also in great demand by non-aviation organizations, further depleting the available workforce to aviation facilities; and

WHEREAS, the current economic environment continues to drive industry costs up with no relief in sight; pricing changes occur as often as multiple times in the same week, based on both fuel, supply chain, and other market conditions, but VA-approved schools are contractually bound to charge only approved rates for VA-funded services; and

WHEREAS, the length of the VA and SAA approval process for price increases can make teaching VA-funded students unprofitable; the process is not reactive to existing market conditions, placing an undue burden on private sector schools and resulting in a loss of employment training opportunities for veterans; and

WHEREAS, most of the 66 public-use airports in the Commonwealth have at least one flight school at the airport, but counting the two university programs, there are only seven Virginia flight schools with approval to accept VA-funding; and

WHEREAS, the pilot and maintainer shortage is having a significant impact on the nation's ability to respond to and recover from shortages, and while veterans are a preferred source of pilots and maintainers for airlines and charter companies, the length of the VA and SAA approval process is continuously eroding flight training opportunities for veterans in the Commonwealth; and

WHEREAS, to address this critical issue, the VA and SAA should increase staffing to ensure timely approvals or establish rules that provide schools with the ability to adjust pricing based on a formula, as opposed to exact approved pricing; and

WHEREAS, such rules would reduce the excessive administrative burden involved with applying for WEAMS updates, increasing efficiency and allowing the SAA to reduce staffing required to approve pricing requests and processing of each WEAMS application, and random audits would ensure compliance with any such pricing formula; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED by the Senate, the House of Delegates concurring, That the Virginia Department of Veterans Services and the Virginia State Approval Agency be encouraged to develop and implement new processes by which flight training and aircraft maintenance training schools in Virginia can adjust student pricing for veterans based on market conditions; and, be it

RESOLVED FURTHER, That the Clerk of the Senate transmit copies of this resolution to the Virginia Department of Veterans Services and the Virginia State Approval Agency, requesting that they further disseminate copies of this resolution to their respective constituents so that they may be apprised of the sense of the General Assembly of Virginia in this matter.
